- Litigation
- International Law
- Suretyship

For decades, Steve Weber has focused his legal practice on representing construction contractors on everything from major domestic and international infrastructure projects to residential construction. He has frequently rendered advice in the contract formation stage and during performance, as well as preparing and litigating post-performance construction disputes in state and federal courts, boards of contract appeals and arbitration. Steve has also assisted businesses to navigate the complex world of federal, state and local government contracting. His comprehensive understanding of how to build and maintain effective working relationships with Federal government customers delivers maximum benefit for his clients. This experience includes responding to solicitations, resolving bid protests and litigating disputes.

His client list includes stakeholders from every aspect of construction projects to companies performing publicly-financed projects in a multitude of industries on a global basis.
